Completion of "Judas Maccabæus."

On the 1st of June the Oratorio of "Judas Maccabæus" will be completed, by the publication of the Twelfth Number, containing the Index, &c., price 6d.; and on the same day will be ready, Handel's Oratorio "Judas Maccabæus," in Vocal Score, bound in parchment cloth, 8vo., price 6s. 6d. This will match the copies already published of the "Messiah," "Creation," "Dettingen Te Deum," &c., and be another volume towards the library of hand-books for the audience, which have been found to give so much additional pleasure whilst listening to an oratorio, by enabling the eye to follow the various musical beauties as they present themselves, and thereby materially assist the ear in more thoroughly comprehending the author's intention. This practice of following music with the eye during performance has been found to give facilities to those who desire to become good first-night readers of music.

On the 1st of June will also be ready, the Pianoforte Copy of "Judas Maccabæus," in Vocal Score (longway music size), price 6s. This edition is perhaps preferable for the pianoforte player, as it lays better open on the desk, exhibiting four pages of the octavo at one view, so that there are just half the usual number of leaves to turn over.

On the 1st of June will also be ready, all the Choruses from "Judas Maccabæus," in Vocal Score, with Accompaniment, price 3s. Considering the very low price at which the whole Oratorio is published, it would at first appear that few persons would buy a portion only, when the whole work costs very little more. This is probably the case where one or two copies only are in question; but when it is necessary for a Choral Society, with limited funds, to purchase copies for a numerous chorus, the advantages of this edition will be readily perceived.

For those who have taken in the Monthly Numbers of the Oratorio as they appear, Parchment Cloth Cases, price 6d. each, will be ready on the 1st of June; and they will do well just to look through their Numbers, and make any complete which may not have been previously bought.

Progress of Mendelssohn's "St. Paul."

The Proprietor of the copyright of this work has no reason to regret having undertaken to supply this work at the very small price he has fixed upon it, since the sale of the Monthly Sixpenny Numbers has already reached so large a number as to prove how eagerly the Public avail themselves of the advantage of being able to possess this great work on such easy terms. No. IV. is published this day (1st May); and it is expected that the work will be continued to the Twelfth and concluding Number with its former punctuality.

On the 1st of June will be commenced, Handel's Oratorio "Jephtha" (8vo., same size as the "Messiah," "Creation," &c.) A new musical type has been made for this work (the exclusive use of which belongs to Mr. J. Alfred Novello). It is considerably larger than the gem type used previously for this series, and yet will not extend the Oratorio to many more pages than the former works. The work will be published in the usual Sixpenny Numbers.

The works of this series already completed are,—

Haydn's "Creation," in vocal score, bound,	Price 5 0
Handel's "Messiah," in vocal score, bound,	" 6 6
Handel's "Judas Maccabæus," in vocal score, bound,	6 6
Handel's "Dettingen Te Deum," in vocal score, stitched,	2 6
Handel's Coronation Anthem, "Zadock the Priest,"	2 6

All these works are edited, corrected, and have a Separate Accompaniment for the Organ or Pianoforte, by VINCENT NOVELLO.
